7. Supplementary Information.....	62

CHAPTER 2

THE CREATION OF A LOCAL BEHAVIOUR AND INNOVATION UNIT (LBIU). A PRACTICAL APPLICATION OF THE CITIES THAT CARE PROJECT

MERCEDES DE HARO-MORENO, RUBÉN GARRIDO-YSERTE.	73
1. Introduction	75
1.1. Challenges for behavioural innovation at the municipal level.	76
1.2. From general challenges to the field of health promotion.	78
1.3. The LBIU as a university-municipality pilot scheme	80
1.4. Research question and hypothesis	81
2. Methods	81
2.1. Stage 1: Understanding behaviour	84
2.1.1. Defining the problem in terms of behaviour	84
2.1.2. Select and specify target behaviours	85
2.1.3. Identify what needs to change (COM-B diagnosis)	85
2.1.4. Use of evidence and previous cases.	86
2.2. Stage 2: Identify intervention functions	87
2.2.1. Select intervention functions (BCW and APEASE)	87
2.2.2. Translation into policy categories.	89
2.3. Stage 3: Content and implementation	90
2.3.1. Components of interventions	90
2.3.2. Delivery method	92
2.3.3. Verification and refinement.	92
3. Results.	93
3.1. Defining the problem in behavioural terms	93
3.2. Selecting and specifying target behaviours	93
3.3. Identifying what needs to change: COM-B analysis	95
3.4. Behavioural diagnosis: what needs to change	97
3.5. Identified intervention functions	97

2.2.1. AFECT framework	150
2.2.2. Behavioural traits	150
2.2.3. Consumer journey	151
2.2.4. Goldilocks pricing.....	152
2.3. Applied methods	153
2.3.1. Qualitative research	153
2.3.2. Quantitative research	153
2.3.3. Co-creation workshops	154
2.4. Limitations	155
3. Results	156
3.1. Phase 1: Diagnosis of barriers to energy efficiency retrofits ..	157
3.1.1. Literature review.....	157
3.1.2. In-depth interviews and desk research	159
3.1.3. Context	160
3.1.4. Motivations	161
3.1.5. Triggers.....	162
3.1.6. Search process	162
3.2. Phase 2: Target identification	163
3.3. Phase 3: Proposition design	163
3.4. Phase 4: Experimental testing	165
3.4.1. Methodology	165
3.4.2. Results.....	167
3.5. Phase 5: Delivering	169
4. Discussion	170
5. Conclusions	171
6. References	172

PART III
PERSONAL FINANCE AND LONG-TERM DECISIONS

CHAPTER 5

FIN4LONG: A BEHAVIORAL FRAMEWORK FOR LONGEVITY FINANCING AND RETIREMENT PLANNING

JOSE VILA, JESÚS GARCÍA, CRISTINA MARTÍNEZ	179
1. Introduction	181
1.1. The challenge of modelling older adults' decision-making	183
1.2. A disruptive behavioral economics approach	185
2. Methods	185
2.1. Multidimensional age	186
2.2. Collecting representative and quality experimental data	189

2.2. Setting	257
2.3. Intervention Content	257
2.4. Operational Implementation	258
2.5. Experimental Design and Sampling	259
2.6. Sampling Method	260
2.7. Observational Period	261
2.8. Variables and Data Structure	261
2.8.1. Outcome Variable	261
2.8.2. Key independent variables	262
2.8.3. Additional aggregates (for economic estimation)	262
2.9. Data Construction and Cleaning	263
2.10. Mathematical and Statistical Approach	263
2.10.1. Analytical framework	263

	Page
2.10.2. Estimation method	264
2.10.3. Parallel-trend validation	265
2.10.4. Effect size interpretation	265
2.10.5. Economic valuation	266
2.11. Ethical and operative considerations	266
3. Results.	266
3.1. Descriptive and Exploratory Data Analysis	266
3.2. Pre-treatment balance	267
3.3. Aggregated Operational Trends	267
3.4. Main Statistical Analysis	270
3.4.1. Model Estimation and Interpretation	270
3.4.2. Dynamic Effects.	273
3.5. Economic impact	274
3.5.1. Monetary impact attributable to the intervention .	274
3.5.2. Additional fulfilled payment promises	276
3.5.3. Per-Operator Impact.	277
3.6. Summary of Findings	279
4. Discussion	279
